EYING THE EIGHTIES

The Society is committed to anticipating the environment which the archival profession will face in the 1980's and to developing its programs accordingly. With a new decade at hand, a poll taken in late December asked SAA members and members of regional archival organizations to list the five most significant problems which archivists and the archival profession will confront in the next five years. The temptation to forecast was great--over half of the sample population returned the questionnaire within two weeks. The ten issues identified most often, as well as a few of the comments received, are compiled below.

1. SCARCE RESOURCES 61% (of respondents cited issue)

Inflation and reluctance to increase taxes will result in cutbacks in fundingIn California--due to proposition 13 and other similar measures --a drastic cut in state and local funding! Of course, this means less staff and probably setbacks in building programs, funds for preservationEnlargement of staffs to handle increasing backlog of unprocessed recordsEffective and efficient use of limited national resources devoted to archival activities.

2. TECHNOLOGY 45%

Keeping current with technological changeImpact of computers on archival theory and practice, especially in the area of finding aidsNew information formats require retooling of archivists and archival operations.

3. PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION 39%

Education standards/accreditation of archival trainingCurriculum developmentExpansion of educational opportunities for veteran archivistsUpgrading opportunities for continuing educationKeeping library schools from controlling archival education programsEstablishing training curriculums, formal (classroom) and informal (correspondence courses, primers like the SAA manuals) for varying degrees of competency. (cont. on p. 2)

4. CONSERVATION 25%

There will be more and more calls for conservation expertise and not enough archivists willing or able to fill this needSAA should encourage courses for and by archivists Lack of conservation interest by directors Lack of education and conservation facilities to which one can turn.

5. FINDING AIDS 24% (tie)

Creation of a truly national data baseStandardization of description to facilitate eventual cooperative automationA move to depart from archival standards of description for administrative purposes in favor of library access methods to service researchers.

5. PUBLIC EDUCATION/RELATIONS 24% (tie)

Creation of a better image for archivists Development of a respected public image for archivists and archives among scholars, related professionals, legislators and the general publicPromotion of archives and their use in the community at largeReorientation to new users/consumers of historical information.

7. BULK/GLUT OF RECORDS 22%

The flood of paperDeveloping new or improved methods of archival practice to cope with the reality of information glut in the 20th century.

8. SECURITY 18% (tie)

Rising theftLegislation to assist in prosecutionTheft is a problem, but much more is lost to improper handling/storage in archives.

8. NATIONAL ARCHIVES & RECORDS SERVICE 18% (tie)

Direction and leadership seems to be at a crucial point--the organized profession has a large stake in this developmentFuture of the National Archives and Presidential Libraries. NARS must be open to public scrutiny but not at the mercy of a megalomaniac GSA Administrator.

8. CERTIFICATION 18% (tie)

Bringing issue of certification to a positive point without tearing our unity apart in the process.

Some other problems identified by respondents included: keeping a firm focus on archival matters in the maelstrom of divisive social issuesthe need for cooperative structures and programsthe adverse effects of militant feminism in the professionthe development of resources for research in archival theoryclarifying and improving relations between regionals and SAAa stronger SAA to monitor all archival programsarchival organizations becoming so large that much time will be wasted bickering instead of on education and sharing of knowledge.

One respondent said that "focusing on problems is a legacy of the 1970's. We need more optimism, more creative thinking, more esprit de corps, and an agenda for the 80's!"

Another poll participant suggested one of the problems faced by the profession was maintaining our sense of humor.

SAA ANNUAL MEETING EXPENSES: WHO PAYS?

A random sample of participants in the 1979 Chicago annual meeting provided the executive director's office with the following data regarding how conference expenses were financed. The poll was similar to one made of participants in the 1974 Toronto meeting. A comparison of the results suggests that SAA has been successful in its efforts to convince administrators of the solid educational value of meeting attendance.

% of expenses pd. by employer	1974 Toronto	1979 Chicago
80 - 100%	45%	61%
50 - 80 %	24%	9%
10 - 50 %	12%	9%
under 10%	19%	21%

Attendance in Toronto was approximately 650; Chicago registration reached 1000.

WHAT SAA COUNCIL DID

In its January 28-29 meeting in Williamsburg, Virginia, SAA Council:

- √ Approved the Code of Ethics for the profession proposed by a task force chaired by David Horn and ordered its publication in the American Archivist.
- √ Authorized the following SAA task forces: National Information Systems, chaired by Richard Lytle; Institutional Evaluation, chaired by William Joyce; Automated Records and Techniques, chaired by Carolyn Geda and Harold Naugler; and Replevin, chaired by Philip Mason.
- √ Drafted a resolution regarding the National Archives (published in the SAA Extra Newsletter, February 1980)

- √ Set May 29-30 for its next meeting.

WEST VIRGINIA ARCHIVES UPDATE

As reported in the May 1979 SAA Newsletter, the Archives and History Division of West Virginia's Department of Culture and History was slated for termination under a sunset law passed by the state legislature in February 1979.

After an extensive study, however, the legislature gave the Division new life, so that the threat of termination no longer exists.

STUDY TOUR OF GREAT BRITAIN

SAA has put together an exciting one-week study tour of Great Britain prior to the International Congress on Archives meeting in London in September. The dates for the tour are September 6-14; the dates for the ICA meeting are September 15-19.

Several archival repositories will be visited: the Scottish Record Office in Edinburgh; the Borthwick Institute in York; the Worcester Record Office in Worcester; the Gloucester County Record Office in Gloucester; and Shakespeare's Birthplace Trust in Stratford-on-Avon.

Non-archival highlights scheduled are a performance of the Royal Shakespeare Theatre and a visit to Stonehenge.

Several options will be made available to interested archivists: the tour plus a week in London for the Congress; the tour alone; or the week in London alone. Airline flights will be arranged from several U.S. airports.

A travel agency is preparing a final itinerary as of press time; a complete brochure will be available for distribution in about three weeks.

Persons interested in the trip, the Congress, or both should request a copy of the brochure from Debbie Risteen at SAA headquarters. At the same time, it would be helpful to know which airport you wish to depart from and which tour option you are most interested in.

AWARDS DEADLINES APPROACHING

Mary Jane Dowd, chair of SAA's Awards Committee, wants to remind all SAA members that the deadlines for nominations for SAA awards are rapidly approaching. The awards are described on pp. 2-3 of the January 1980 SAA Newsletter.

The application deadline for the Colonial Dames Scholarship to the Modern Archives Institute is March 31, 1980. Application should be made to Sister Bridget M. Engelmeyer, College of Notre Dame, 4701 N. Charles St., Baltimore, MD 21210. See the January Newsletter for eligibility information.

The deadline to apply for all other SAA awards is May 1, 1980. Applications should be sent to Mary Jane Dowd, Industrial and Social Branch, (NNFS), National Archives and Records Service, Washington, DC 20408.

NOMINATIONS FOR SAA FELLOWS SOLICITED

The SAA Committee on Professional Standards urges the Society's membership to nominate persons for election as Fellows in 1980.

Election of Fellows is by majority vote of the Committee on Professional Standards, composed of the five most recent past presidents of the Society. The 1979-80 Committee will be chaired by Hugh Taylor, Public Archives of Nova Scotia.

According to the constitution, candidates for Fellow must have been individual members of the Society in good standing for the past five years. The Committee on Professional Standards is also guided by the following criteria:

- A. Appropriate academic education and professional and technical training in any of the fields of the Society's interest.
- B. Professional experience in any of the fields of the Society's objectives, of a minimum of five years, which shall include evidence of professional responsibility. Contributions to the profession which demonstrate the possession of initiative, resourcefulness, and professional morale.

- C. Writing of superior quality and usefulness in contributing toward the realization of the Society's objectives.
- D. Contributions to the archival profession through active participation in the Society of American Archivists and innovative or other outstanding work on behalf of the Society.

Any SAA member is eligible to nominate another member for Fellow of the Society. For a nomination form, write to Joyce Gianatasio at SAA headquarters.

Completed forms must be received by Hugh Taylor, Public Archives of Nova Scotia, Coburg Road, Halifax, Nova Scotia, by May 1.

4TH BUSINESS ARCHIVES WORKSHOP

SAA's fourth workshop for business archivists has been scheduled for August 18-22, 1980, in Dearborn, Michigan, at the historic Dearborn Inn. (This is a change from the dates announced in the November 1979 Newsletter.)

The agenda for the workshop will be similar to those of the previous three workshops, held in 1978 and 1979. The first three days will be devoted to basic archival procedures as they apply to business archivists. Topics to be covered include establishing a business archives, appraisal, acquisition, arrangement, description, and budgeting. Tours of local repositories, including the Ford Archives, will be scheduled.

The final two days of the workshop will be devoted to selected topics in business archives. The tentative list of topics to be covered includes marketing a business archives, access to business archives, photographs in the business archives, records management and business archives, and writing a corporate history.

The faculty for the final two days has not yet been set. The basic portion will be taught by Douglas A. Bakken, Ford Archives, and Edie Hedlin, NHPRC.

A complete brochure, including registration form, is being prepared. Persons wishing to receive it should contact Deborah Risteen at SAA headquarters.

COURT RULES IN FBI CASE

In a January order, Judge Harold H. Greene of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, halted the disposal of field files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. (SAA Newsletter, November 1979, p. 16)

A suit was brought against the FBI and NARS by journalists, historians, subjects of FBI investigations, and groups seeking to disseminate information about the bureau. Among the individuals involved were Angela Davis, Jessica Mitford, Paul Robeson Jr., and several persons connected with the espionage case of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

Greene's opinion challenged the adequacy of NARS' appraisal of the FBI records in question. NARS had granted the FBI's request for authority to destroy all closed field office files, the theory being that these files were largely duplicates of the records being maintained at FBI Washington headquarters.

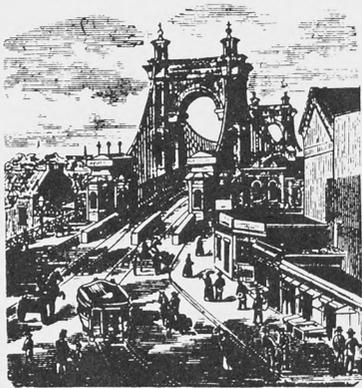

Plans are now being formulated by NARS for an extensive review and reappraisal of the bureau's field files--a project which is expected to involve an eight member team working for a year--an unprecedented level of attention to one series of records. NARS' entire professional appraisal staff numbers about a dozen archivists, whose responsibilities now encompass the whole federal government. A copy of Greene's decision is available to members for a $2.00 prepaid copying charge.

44TH ANNUAL MEETING: AGENDA FOR THE 80'S

The 44th annual meeting of the Society of American Archivists will be held September 30-October 3, 1980 at the Netherland Hilton in Cincinnati. The Local Arrangements Committee, under the direction of Alice Vestal, University of Cincinnati, is planning a variety of activities. Plans include an opening reception at the Banker's Club of Cincinnati, entertainment by blue grass and country singer Katie Laur, and a tour of famous Cincinnati restaurants.

Two pre-conference workshops are being scheduled in conjunction with the Cincinnati meeting. A workshop on Basic Archival Conservation will be held September 28-29. A workshop on Basic Archival Theory and Techniques will be conducted September 29-October 1. Details on the pre-conference workshops are available from the SAA headquarters office.

SAA program chairs Kenneth Duckett, University of Oregon, and Trudy Huskamp Peterson, National Archives and Records Service, have announced "Agenda for the '80s" as the theme of the 1980 annual meeting. The theme will be the focus of the plenary session, as well as sessions conducted by institutional Professional Affinity Groups addressing their particular archival concerns during the coming decade.

Conservation will be the focus of numerous sessions including Conservation of Oversize and Cartographic Materials, Conservation of Visual Images, Cooperative Conservation, and Lamination: Pros and Cons. Other sessions scheduled by the Program Committee include Systems in Information Management, Editing and Production of Archival Publications, Municipal Archives in the '80s, and Records Management for Religious Archives. Over 70 sessions, workshops, seminars, demonstrations, and a film festival have been planned.

Following the meeting, archivists will have the opportunity to participate in an architectural and historical bus tour of Cincinnati. The Local Arrangements Committee is also arranging a post-meeting tour of the Shaker village of Pleasant Hill, Kentucky, a carefully restored rural Shaker community. Participants in the overnight tour will be housed in one of the original buildings of the village. Rooms are furnished in reproduction Shaker furniture and hand woven rugs and curtains. The group will hear presentations on the history of the community and the restoration of the village.

PROCEDURE FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF SAA TASK FORCES

Paul McCarthy, chair of SAA Council's Program Committee, coordinates requests from the membership for the formation of task forces.

In order to insure that the Council has all the appropriate and needed information for the consideration of the establishment of a task force he requests that each individual member of SAA requesting the establishment of a task force prepare an outline of the function and operation of the proposed task force on one to two pages for submission to the Council. While other materials may be submitted which will largely duplicate this effort the Program Committee would like to standardize the process to insure that the needed information is received in regard to each task force. Members may wish to submit additional materials besides this outline and are certainly invited to do so.

The Committee would like to have the following points covered in the outline of the proposal:

1. Purpose
2. Expected outcome or product
3. Project duration
4. Budget estimate
5. Outline of how the project will be accomplished or executed (by stages, if appropriate; also please attach example of survey instruments, etc., if appropriate)
6. Membership suggestions, if appropriate

Requests for establishing a task force should be sent to Paul McCarthy, Jr., Box 80687, College Station, Fairbanks, AK 99708.

PEOPLE PAPERS

Peking In a letter to former U.S. Archivist James B. Rhoads, Zhang Zong, Director-General of the State Archives Bureau of the People's Republic of China, outlined his country's activities during International Archives Weeks. During the period October 22-November 30, 1979, the State Archives Bureau sponsored a week of films about Chinese history; issued a special set of three commemorative stamps; held a symposium on archives at Chinese People's University; and prepared for the establishment of the China Archives Society. American Archivist "International Scene" Editor Ronald Plavchan also received a letter from Zhang appointing a correspondent from the State Archives Bureau to the American Archivist.

Detroit, Michigan Former General Motors executive John De Lorean, in a new book entitled On a Clear Day You Can See General Motors, gives an insider's look at the behavior of GM officials during Ralph Nader's attack on the Corvair.

"The corporation became almost paranoid about the leaking of inside information on the car. In April 1971, 19 boxes of microfilmed Corvair owner complaints, which had been ordered destroyed by upper management, turned up in the possession of two suburban Detroit junk dealers. When The Fourteenth Floor found this out, it went into panic. We at Chevrolet were ordered to buy the microfilm back and have it destroyed.

"I refused, saying that a public company had no right to destroy documents of its business and that GM's furtive purchase would certainly surface. Besides, the $20,000 asking price was outright blackmail.

"When some consumer groups showed an interest in getting the film, the customer relations department was ordered to buy the film, which it did. To prevent similar slip-ups in the future, the corporation tightened its scrapping procedures."

(This excerpt was taken from an adapted version of one chapter of De Lorean's book, published in the January 1980 Washington Monthly.)

Antichak, India Archeologists excavating a site that was once a Buddhist monastery have uncovered what is believed to have been an eighth century air conditioning device.

A rectangular building to one side of the main monastery complex contains a water reservoir. Sloping channels lead from the reservoir to the other side of the main building. These channels carried air which was cooled after its contact with the cold water in the reservoir. It is believed that the channels led to cells where fragile manuscripts were kept, and that the cooling was for their protection.

SAA Pilot Workshop in Basic Archival Conservation

The Society of American Archivists will conduct a pilot workshop in Basic Archival Conservation May 8-9 in Chicago. The workshop will provide training and guidance which will enable archivists to assess the preservation needs of their institutions, and to establish realistic programs and procedures to address those needs; technical information to enable archivists to communicate with administrators, staff, users, and professional conservators; and a source of information which will assist archival institutions in the establishment and maintenance of realistic conservation programs and procedures.

Workshop instructors are Howard Lowell, a specialist in conservation administration, and Mary Lynn Ritzenthaler, chair of SAA's Conservation Professional Affinity Group.

The workshop will have two basic components: instruction in priority content areas in a classroom setting; and demonstrations/hands-on training in basic conservation techniques which can be incorporated as an integral part of archival processing procedures.

Applicants should be persons who currently hold positions of responsibility for the care of archives and manuscripts. Preference will be given to persons with little or no previous training in conservation. Qualified applicants will be admitted on a first-come, first-served basis.

The fee for the workshop is $50.00 which covers registration, and purchase of a basic kit of conservation supplies. Use of the supplies will be demonstrated during Day #2 of the workshop. Meals and accommodations are not included in the fee.

Enrollment in the workshop will be limited. Unless special circumstances prevail, no more than one representative from any repository will be admitted to the workshop.

The workshop will be held at Spertus College of Judaica, 618 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

To apply, write to Joyce Gianatasio, Society of American Archivists, 330 S. Wells St., Suite 810, Chicago, Illinois 60606.
