The all-purpose barbershop. A seminarian attending St. Francis Seminary in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in the early 1930s receives a trim at the institute's barbershop. A message on the mirror advises: "Leave your cassocks, suits, shoes here during vacation. They'll be ready when you return!"
You ought to be in SAA!

Receiving the SAA Newsletter is but one of the many benefits of joining the Society of American Archivists. The newsletter provides timely information about what's going on in the archival profession. If you are looking for fraternity among your peers, professional development, business contacts, job opportunities, subscriptions to this newsletter and the American Archivist quarterly journal, and much, much more, then

You ought to be in SAA

SAA, founded in 1936, is the oldest and largest national professional association for archivists and institutions interested in the preservation and use of archives, manuscripts, and current records. Society members serve in government agencies, academic institutions, historical societies, businesses, museums, libraries, religious organizations, professional associations, and numerous other institutions. Still interested? We would like to hear from you. For information about joining SAA, contact Debra Mills, Society of American Archivists, 600 S. Federal, Suite 504, Chicago, Illinois 60605, (312) 922-0140.
A (New) Future for NHPRC

by John Fleckner

Will 1993 bring new life to the fifty-eight-year-old National Historical Publications and Records Commission?

By this time next year the U.S. Congress must decide to extend the life of this venerable granting agency. Or, it may allow NHPRC to fade into oblivion. Your efforts as an individual and as a member of the Society of American Archivists and other professional associations, will make a difference in this decision.

The fifteen Commission members—representing each branch of the federal government and six historical and archival associations—believe the NHPRC mission to preserve and publish historical records is even more urgent today than it was in 1934. At its June meeting, the Commissioners formally approved a request to Congress to "reauthorize" the agency for six more years. They also asked Congress to increase the maximum funding allowed for NHPRC from the current $10 million to $18 million by 1998. Unfortunately, Congress has never actually allocated as much as $6 million in any fiscal year.

The Commissioners requested this major increase for historical records despite the current federal budget situation. They based their action on the results of a two-year planning process which examined Commission goals and objectives and the needs of the historical records community.

With a reauthorized Commission and levels of funding requested in the NHPRC plan, Americans can expect better care of and access to their historical documents. Archivists will be better trained and will work with more effective tools and techniques. Without NHPRC and the funding it needs, individual archivists, the profession, and our archival institutions will lose a vital force for growth and improvement in our capabilities and services. The nation will lose a unique source of funding and advocacy on behalf of our documentary heritage.

John Fleckner, SAA’s representative to NHPRC, will introduce a resolution during the Business Meeting at the SAA Annual Meeting on September 16 in Montreal. This resolution is in support of reauthorization and increased funding. SAA will inform members about the course of reauthorization legislation during the next twelve months. And every archivist will have an opportunity to act—through calls, letters, and other means—to build a new future for NHPRC.
1993 SAA Publications Catalog
The 1993 SAA Publications Catalog was printed in August and mailed along with this issue of the SAA Newsletter to all members of the Society of American Archivists. The catalog features 100 titles—more than any previous edition. This includes 20 new titles published by the Society or acquired for distribution within the last year.

The publications listed address a variety of subjects important to the archival profession and are divided into the following easy-access categories: introduction to archives, preservation, appraisal, continuing education, writings about archives, automation, archival management, publications for special archives, and non textual records. In addition, there are separate sections for the Archival Fundamentals Series, Basic Manual Series, American Archivist, SAA, brochures, and reports.

The Society is your resource for archival literature. If you need additional catalogs, please contact SAA publications at (312) 922-0140.

Code of Ethics for Archivists
The SAA Code of Ethics for Archivists is also included in this mailing of the SAA Newsletter. The Code is a revision of the one first adopted in 1980. It serves to inform new members of the profession of the high standards of conduct in the most sensitive areas of archival work; to remind experienced archivists of their responsibilities; and to educate people such as donors of materials, dealers, researchers, and administrators about the work of archivists and to encourage them to expect high standards. Also included with the Code is a three-page commentary which discusses each point of the Code.

Out of Print
Keeping Archives, the internationally-acclaimed manual on archival administration, edited by Ann Pederson and published in 1987 by the Australian Society of Archivists Incorporated, is out of print and no longer available.

A second edition, edited by Judith Willis, is in progress and is slated for co-publication by D.W. Thorpe and the Australian Society of Archivists in April 1993. New chapters include Preservation, Legal Responsibilities and Issues, and Managing Records in Special Formats. In addition, chapters 1 (Introducing Archives and Archival Programs), 5 (Acquisition), 6 (Appraisal), and 9 (Finding Records), are being revised.

In its absence, SAA recommends the publications available in the Archival Fundamentals Series. See page 3 of the new 1993 SAA Publications Catalog for details.

This Month in Montreal
The November issue of the SAA Newsletter will have coverage of the 56th SAA annual meeting being held this month at the Le Centre Sheraton in Montreal. Highlights will include the new SAA Fellows named, awards honoring individuals and groups for their contributions to the archival profession in 1991, notes on the Council meeting, as well as a general summary of the meeting. Also available will be information about ordering audio cassettes of selected presentations at the conference. All of this and more in the next issue of the newsletter!

Update of Directory of Archival Organizations
The Directory of Archival Organization, formerly the Directory of Regional Archival Organizations, is being revised for 1993. Regional, state, municipal, and other archival organizations are encouraged to send updated information about officers, newsletter editors, and membership contacts to Archival Directory, Society of American Archivists, 600 S. Federal, Suite 504, Chicago, Illinois 60605 or fax (312) 347-1452. Please send this information by November 10. SAA would like to make this directory available to members and others in January 1993.

In addition, regional, state, municipal, and other archival organizations are also encouraged to add SAA to their mailing lists for newsletters and other information. Please use the address listed in the above paragraph. SAA appreciates the opportunity to stay abreast of important information through these mailing lists.

Directory of Consultants
The second edition of the SAA Directory of Consultants will be published later this fall and mailed to SAA membership in January. It will also be available to others free by request.

Listings will appear in four categories: archivists; manuscript appraisers; conservators and preservation administrators; and attorneys. The latter category was added this year. Within each category, listings will be alphabetized by an individual's last name or name of firm. Each entry will consist of name, address, telephone, fax and e-mail numbers, and a brief description of services offered or areas of specialty.

Each full entry is $60. An additional $15 covers a "see also" reference. Space for display advertisements is also available. For more information on listing your consultant services in the forthcoming SAA Directory of Consultants, see the application on page 14 of this newsletter.

Archival Education Directory
The SAA Directory of Archival Education, 1993-94, compiled by SAA's Office of Education, provides the latest, most complete information about the many and diverse archival training programs available in the United States and Canada. For anyone looking to further their education in the field of archives, this directory is a valuable reference. For your free copy, contact Education Office, Society of American Archivists, 600 S. Federal, Suite 504, Chicago, Illinois 60605, (312) 922-0140.

American Archivist
The summer 1991 issue of the American Archivist (54:3) was mailed to all members in July. If you have not received a copy, please contact SAA publications at (312) 922-0140. The next two issues, fall 1991 (54:4) and winter 1992 (55:1) are in production and will be mailed to members by next month.
New Education Program Assistant

Tara Shimandle assumed the position of SAA Education Program Assistant on June 30, 1992. She replaces SAA staffer Nancy Van Wicren, who is pursuing educational and employment opportunities at Concordia College in nearby River Forest, Illinois.

Tara is a 1991 graduate of Bennington College in Vermont, where she majored in literature. While at Bennington, she worked in the library in the reference and cataloging departments, as well as edited the school’s prestigious literary magazine, _SILLO_.

Tara’s recent work experience includes brief stints at advertising agencies in Chicago. Her avocation is poetry and her hobbies include knitting and jumping rope.

Welcome aboard, Tara!

Colonial Dames Scholarship

A scholarship to the National Archives’ Modern Archives Institute, to be held January 25 - February 5, 1993, is available from the Society of American Archivists. The award, funded by the Colonial Dames of America, Chapter III, covers a portion of the tuition, travel, and housing expenses at the Institute. To be eligible, an applicant must be an employee of an archival institution or agency with a fair percentage of its holdings in a period predating 1825; have been employed less than two years as an archivist or archives trainee; and actually be working with archives or manuscripts regardless of title.

Resumes accompanied by two letters of recommendation from persons having definite knowledge of the applicant’s qualifications should be submitted to Frank C. Mevers, New Hampshire State Archives, 71 S. Fruit Street, Concord, New Hampshire 03301, by December 1, 1992.

Obituaries

Helen M. Knubel, archivist of the Lutheran Church and former SAA member, died of respiratory failure in July at the age of 91 in Bronxville, New York. Considered the foremost archivist of the history of the Lutheran Church in North America, Knubel assembled and maintained records of the earliest settlement of Lutherans in the United States and Canada.

Knubel organized the library and archives of the National Lutheran Council, which coordinated the work of more than 30 Lutheran groups. From 1954 to 1966, she was secretary of research and statistics of the Council and from 1967 through her retirement in 1971, she was associate director of the Office of Research, Statistics, and Archives to the Council’s successor, the Lutheran Council in the U.S.A. She also founded the Oral History of Cooperative Lutheranism in America.

Knubel’s formal schooling was interrupted at age 15, when she was struck by polio, which forced her to use a wheelchair for the rest of her life. She later studied at the New School for Social Research, New York Theological Seminary, and Columbia University School of Library Service.

Among her many honors, Knubel received the Distinguished Service Award from the Lutheran Historical Council.

Elizabeth C. Sizer, died at the age of 67 in her home in Austin, Texas, last May after a long illness. Sizer, a regular attendee at SAA annual meetings, is the wife of SAA retired member and the former state archivist of Arkansas, Sam Sizer.

Sizer graduated with a degree in psychology from the University of Texas in 1945. She designed an innovative program for training of staff at the Austin State School. In the mid 1970s, she worked closely with Elizabeth Kubler-Ross, author of the definitive _Death and Dying_, to produce a television program for statewide viewing in Arkansas and travelled extensively to address a variety of groups on death and dying. In addition, she founded, secured funding for, and served as the director of the Northwest Arkansas Hospice Association, the first such group in the state.

Sizer is survived by her husband, her father, and four daughters and grandchildren.
Three recent calls to archivists, in widely different states, produced the same unhappy news. The first archivist reported that he cannot travel outside the state, even to a major professional meeting, without written authorization from the governor. The second is unable to return telephone calls to another state because of stringent budgetary constraints. Calls to the third archivist reach an answering machine because his staff, including secretarial support, has been almost entirely eliminated due to lack of funding.

These telephone calls brought home to me in graphic terms how archival institutions all across the country are experiencing deep and painful cuts in staff and programs. Some are having to cut their budgets again and again. A less-than-robust economy has worked its inexorable effects on archival repositories, from the largest state archives to the smallest historical society. Resources have been reduced, and archives must compete grimly with other agencies and programs for the resources that are available. All across America, archives are at risk, perhaps as never before.

All of us recognize that our society is wrestling with a great many compelling needs. As taxpayers and as citizens, we cannot argue that archives should take precedence over unemployment benefits, or increased law enforcement, or the correction of environmental damage. Only our elected representatives, and through them we as citizens, can decide how to allocate limited resources among the multitude of needs. But archivists and their friends can, and should, assert the value and lasting importance of archival holdings and programs so forcefully that archival needs are not overlooked in the decision-making process.

It takes money to operate an archives. It takes money to build and sustain adequate facilities and a professional staff. It takes money to work with records creators so that archival records are in fact accessioned. It takes money to arrange and describe these records, and to preserve them properly for users. It takes money to assist those users in learning about and in consulting records. It takes money to cope with the vast technological changes that are affecting both records creation and recordkeeping. And it takes money to acquaint the public as a whole with its archival riches, and the importance of these riches to our shared history and culture.

Ultimately, though, an archives is a bargain. It enables an organization to function more effectively, and more efficiently. It enables users to find the particular information they must have. An archives enables people to verify their rights, and to hold government accountable for its actions. And it enables all of us to become more knowledgeable about our common past and—dare we say it?—wiser. With the help of archival records, we understand better the choices that we face, as well as why we must make them.

Archives are essential, therefore, for our democratic society to thrive. This statement is more than a pious platitude, more than a vague wish, more than reflected self-interest. Archives represent unique and indispensable treasures and services without which our society would be much poorer, in resources and in spirit.

Nor is this value just an abstract notion. In his SAA manual, Understanding Archives and Manuscripts, James O'Toole has cited some illustrations of the practical utility of archival holdings:

"Medical researchers...use archival records to trace the symptoms and patterns of disease in their search for treatment and cure. Public health officials use archives to locate toxic waste sites in the interests both of cleaning them up and of protecting the public. ...A number of public and private archives in the recent past have made their records available in settling Native American land claims and other treaty disputes and in coming to court decisions that are acceptable and fair to all concerned. One state archives has seen its records used to establish the rights to offshore oil reserves, and the resulting revenue helped keep tax rates low while maintaining state services. In all these cases, the public at large reaps substantial benefits from supporting public and private archival programs. The return on the investment in archives is substantial."

In museums, in businesses, in religious organizations, in universities, and in countless other places the story is the same: archival records and programs are worth the investment in them. They produce tangible benefits—sometimes actual savings—in addition to those benefits that cannot be measured in monetary terms.

In our thousands of separate governmental jurisdictions, too, archives are essential. They make it possible for persons to track their families, to understand the development of American democracy, to verify their rights. And they make it possible for governments to conduct the people's business better—and more cheaply.

We must redouble our efforts to increase awareness of the multiple values of archives. When people ask me how they can help archives in these trying times, I tell them: Let archivists know that you value the work that they do. Let those to whom the archives reports know this, too. Publicize the good work of archivists, and win new friends for them. Contribute money to supplement their programs. Contribute your own time as a volunteer. Use archival collections, demonstrating anew each time you do that archives are not mere storehouses but are vital centers for research and history.

So far, the National Archives has been able to secure most of the funding we need to maintain and strengthen our programs even while we are preparing for our major new facility, Archives II. But none of us can remain indifferent to the picture I have described. We all benefit when there is a prosperous and successful archival community. We all suffer when that community is weakened, and when archives are less effective or less visible or less used. We all have something vital at stake, therefore, in a healthy, vigorous, and diverse archival community. I know you will want to join with me in seeking ways to ensure that such a community continues to exist.
Authorization Legislation for the National Archives Introduced

On June 9 Representative Bob Wise (D-WV) introduced H.R. 5356, the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) Authorization Act of 1992. Two weeks later Senators Herb Kohl (D-WI), John Glenn (D-OH), and David Pryor (D-AR) introduced a parallel bill, S. 2892. Although the National Historical Publications and Records Commission (NHPRC), a part of NARA, operates under authorization legislation, NARA has had no such legislation.

In addition to establishing relatively low appropriations ceilings for both NARA and NHPRC, the bill would create two advisory committees—one focusing on general issues and the other on electronic records—to advise the U.S. Archivist.

The proposed legislation has thirteen sections which address such diverse issues as establishing a Visiting Scholars Program to provide expenses for researchers to travel to Washington, assuring that photocopying prices do not exceed costs, increasing authority for the U.S. Archivist to issue to federal agencies binding guidelines, establishing a more comprehensive definition of the term "record" to insure inclusion of computerized and electronic information, providing for copies of documents to be treated as federal records, increasing the endowment requirement for Presidential Libraries from twenty percent to forty percent, instituting a seven year term for the U.S. Archivist, and requiring that the Deputy Archivist be a Presidential appointment confirmed by the Senate.

It is most unlikely that there will be any movement on these bills during this session of Congress. However, indications are that this legislation will receive serious attention. Those interested in more information on this legislation should contact Page Putnam Miller, NCC, 400 A Street, SE, Washington, D.C. 20003.

NARA Motion Picture Research Room

On May 28 the National Archives published in the Federal Register a proposed rule change for use of self-copying equipment in the Motion Picture Research Room. With this proposal NARA is modifying the "clean research room" policy it put in place at the end of 1991 and which caused a strong negative reaction from users whose ability to use the collection had been significantly reduced. The proposed rule allows users to bring one piece of copying equipment into a newly designated unrestricted research area in order to make personal use copies of unrestricted film, video, and audio records.

Study on Privileged Access Released

In June the Center for Public Integrity released the study, For Their Eyes Only: How Presidential Appointees Treat Public Documents as Personal Property. Prepared by investigative journalist Steve Weinberg, the report details specific case studies of former Reagan cabinet members and their use of classified documents in their memoirs.

"Why, twenty years after Watergate, do we still allow government officials to shade or filter the truth to their own liking," said Charles Lewis, Executive Director of the Center. Noting that there are roughly a billion pages of government documents still classified, Lewis asserted that "the entire classification system is hopelessly outdated."

Of special interest to scholars is an appendix that provides information for each administration since Truman on how former high-ranking officials have used classified documents for their memoirs. Copies of For Their Eyes Only may be secured by sending $10 to the Center for Public Integrity, 1910 K Street, NW, Suite 802, Washington, D.C. 20006.

General Accounting Office Releases Report on Department of Energy Record Keeping Practices

In May the General Accounting Office released a report titled Department of Energy Management: Better Planning Needed to Correct Records Management Problems. The report noted that in 1988 the National Archives made over thirty specific recommendations regarding all phases of the Department of Energy's (DOE) records management.

Despite some efforts at correcting these problems, GAO found that DOE still needs to implement adequate documentation practices, perform comprehensive inventories of all its records, establish procedures to prevent records from being removed or destroyed when employee leave or contracts end, and develop plans or set specific target dates to ensure the correction of its records management problems.

Single copies of this report (GAO/RCED-92-88) are free. Call GAO at (202) 275-6241.

OMB Circular on Information Resources Is Revised

This spring the Office of Management and Budget issued a proposed revision of OMB Circular NO. A-130, Management of Federal Information Resources. The deadline for comments in August. SAA Newsletter — September 1992 7
Business Archives: The Basics and Beyond

The dates for the workshop “Business Archives: The Basics and Beyond,” have been changed, in order not to conflict with the fall meeting of the Midwest Archives Conference. The workshop is scheduled to be held at the new Sheraton Hotel in Chicago, Thursday-Saturday, November 12-14, 1992. Instructors Phil Mooney of Coca Cola, Inc., and Elizabeth Adkins of Kraft/General Foods will cover topics, such as gaining management’s support for the archives; the role of records management; appraisal and selection of archival records; arrangement; description; reference, access, and legal issues; and using oral history in business archives programs. Included with the course will be tours of two Chicago business archives: The William Wrigley Jr. Company and Playboy Enterprises.

USMARC to Be Offered Twice in the Fall

“Understanding the USMARC Format for Archival and Manuscripts Control” is scheduled to be held twice in the coming months. SAA, in co-sponsorship with the Association of St. Louis Area Archivists, will hold the USMARC workshop on Thursday and Friday, October 29-30, 1992, at the new quarters of the Missouri Historical Society in St. Louis. Instructors will be Marion Matters, consultant and former Automation Officer for SAA, and Debbie Pendleton, Acting Assistant Director, Public Services Division, of the Alabama Department of Archives and History. The New England Archivists will co-sponsor the second USMARC workshop on Thursday and Friday, November 5-6, 1992, at the Massachusetts Archives at Columbia Point, in the Boston area. Instructors will be Kathleen Roe, Director of Statewide Archives and Technology Services, New York State Archives and Records Administration, and Marion Matters.

Photographic Collections Management

“Photographic Collections Management” will be held at the Memorial Union of North Dakota State University on Friday, October 23, 1992. Co-sponsored and funded in large part by the North Dakota State Historical Records Advisory Board, the workshop will address problems of reference and access, arrangement, and description of photographic collections. The instructor will be Richard Pearce-Moses, Curator of Photographs at Arizona State University. He is the author of Photographic Collections in Texas: A Union Guide (Texas A&M University Press, 1987).

Architectural Records: Identification, Preservation, and Access

“Architectural Records: Identification, Preservation, and Access” will be held on November 4, 1992, in Cleveland, Ohio. The workshop will cover the different types of architectural records that exist and how to identify them; appraisal; arrangement; description; practical ways to insure preservation of the records; and ways for the archivist to become an activist in collecting and preserving documentation of the built and planned environment. The instructor will be Tawny Ryan Nelb, consultant. Ms. Nelb is formerly of Yale University and is immediate past chair of the Architectural Records Roundtable of SAA.

Deadline Extended for 1993 Preconference proposals

The Education Office Advisory Board has extended the deadline for 1993 preconference proposals. Sections, Committees, Roundtables, and individuals proposing one or two-day workshops have until October 1, 1992, to submit written proposals to the SAA Education Office. Proposal should include the following elements: Title; Length of workshop; Name of section or roundtable proposing, if applicable; Suggested instructors; Paragraph description of workshop; Goals; Intended audience; Detailed outline and schedule; List of advance readings; Case studies; Audiovisual needs; Budget, including travel, honoraria requested, and photocopying needs.

We are pleased to announce the selection of the faculty for the Preservation Management Training Program. This outstanding group has been culled from two distinct areas, the archives conservation community and the archives administration community. All faculty have experience working in archives as conservators or administrators with preservation management responsibilities. The Preservation Program Director is teaching each of the twelve workshops within the four series to be offered across the country. She will be assisted by the co-faculty listed below for the designated workshop.

Northeastern Series (I):
- Workshop A Diana Alper, National Archives and Records Administration
- Workshop B Karen Garlick, Smithsonian Institution Archives
- Workshop C Chris Ward, New York State Archives

Midwestern Series (II):
- Workshop A Maria Holden, New York State Archives
- Workshop B Kathy Ludwig, Minnesota Historical Society
- Workshop C Gerry Munoff, University of Chicago Library

Western Series (III):
- Workshop A Judith Fortson, Hoover Institution, Stanford University
- Workshop B Jane Klinger, National Archives and Records Administration - San Bruno, California Branch
- Workshop C Anne Kenney, Cornell University Libraries

Southeastern Series (IV):
- Workshop A Hilary Kaplan, Georgia Department of Archives and History
- Workshop B Mary Lynn Ritzenthaler, National Archives and Records Administration
- Workshop C Brenda Banks, Georgia Department of Archives and History

Program brochures, which include application information, were mailed to all SAA individual and institutional members last May. Those who did not receive one and wish to should contact Danielle Feuillan at (312) 922-0140.

Grants for Travel and Research at the Rockefeller Archive Center

The Rockefeller Archive Center, a division of the Rockefeller University, invites applications for its program of Grants for Travel and Research at the Rockefeller Archive Center for 1993. The competitive program makes grants of up to $1,500 to researchers in any discipline, usually graduate students or post-doctoral scholars, who are engaged in research that requires use of the collections at the Center, which include the records of the Rockefeller family, the Rockefeller Foundation, the Rockefeller University, and other philanthropic organizations and associated individuals. The deadline for applications is December 31, 1992; grant recipients will be announced in March. Inquiries about the program and requests for applications should be addressed to Darwin H. Stapleton, Director, Rockefeller Archive Center, 15 Dayton Avenue, North Tarrytown, New York 10591-598.

SCA Occasional Papers Series

The Society of Colorado Archivists recently published another issue in its Occasional Papers series, The Function and Force of Reader Registration Procedures (No. 3), by Bonnie Hardwick of The Bancroft Library. The paper is based on a presentation made by Hardwick at the 1990 SAA Annual Meeting in Seattle. Topics include access policy, repository rules, registration/access forms, daily logs, use logs, a compilation of repository rules, and a generic registration form. The cost of this paper is $3.

The preceding two papers in the series are also available: Ethics and the Archival Profession (No.1), by Mary Ann G. Cutter, discusses moral decision-making in the archival profession; and Photographic Enclosures: Buffered or Non-Buffered? (No. 2), by J. Todd Ellison, presents the issue of alkaline buffering for photographic enclosures. Copies of these two papers are $2 each.

Please include 50¢ per order to cover postage and handling. Send orders to Rutherford W. Withus, 2054 Clarkson Street, Denver, Colorado 80205.

NEH Awards $18.7 Million Grants

The National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) recently announced 54 new grants totaling $18.7 million that will help museums, libraries, and other institutions across the country preserve endangered material culture collections, books, and historic newspapers. A number of the grants will help organizations improve access to manuscripts and other source materials important for humanities research and education.

All of the grants announced today were made by the Endowment’s Division of Preservation and Access, which supports a range of preservation and access efforts. Museums, archives, libraries and other institutions receive support to microfilm deteriorating publications, stabilize material culture collections, increase access to collections or provide preservation training for staff.

The 54 grants announced today are in 25 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

NHPRC Recommends 37 Grants Totaling $1.4 Million

The National Historical Publications and Records Commission (NHPRC) met in June and recommended $1,205,500 for 28 historical records projects, $73,100 for 2 continuing documentary editions projects, $48,000 for 4 subventions to university presses, and $75,000 for 3 fellowships in historical editing. The grant recommendations were made in response to more than $4,250,000 in requests. The next meeting of the Commission is scheduled for November 17 and 18, 1992. The next deadline for application submissions for proposals is October 1, 1992.

Consultants, would you like to reach thousands of people for mere pennies???

List your services in the forthcoming

SAA 1993 Directory of Consultants.

Published by the Society of American Archivists, here is your opportunity to zero in on a target market of several thousand people that NEED your services. SAA is the oldest and largest professional association for archivists—more than 4,600 individuals and institutions committed to the preservation and use of archives, manuscripts, and current records.

The second annual Directory of Consultants will be published by SAA this fall and distributed FREE of charge to all 4,600 SAA members—people who are interested in the services that you provide. Copies will be available to others upon request for the cost of shipping and handling.

Listings* will appear in four easy-access categories:

♦ Archivists
♦ Attorneys
♦ Conservators and Preservation Administrators
♦ Manuscript Appraisers

Within each category, listings will be alphabetized by an individual's last name OR name of firm. Each entry will consist of: Name, Address, Telephone Number, Fax Number, E-Mail Number, and a Description—75 words or less—of Services Offered and/or Areas of Specialty.

Consultants may select to be listed in more than one category. EACH full entry is $60. An additional $15 covers a "see also" reference.

Space for display advertisements is also available. Submit camera-ready artwork in the following sizes:

♦ 1/9 page - $80 (2 3/8" wide x 3 1/8" tall)
♦ 1/4 page - $110 (5" wide x 4 1/4" tall)

DEADLINE for listings and ads is October 1, 1992.

* A listing in the 1993 Directory of Consultants does not imply SAA endorsement.

Open Forum on Certification Renewal
Board Meeting
May 8-9, 1992

The ACA Board met for two days last May at the Chicago Historical Society. Anne Diffendal, SAA Executive Director, sat in on the May 8th meeting, and Elizabeth Adkins joined the meeting for the afternoon to report for the Finance Committee. Highlights of the meeting were as follows:

Executive Committee Meeting
The ACA Officers met May 7th at the SAA Office with Anne Diffendal and Nancy Van Wieren (former ACA Secretariat) to review the ACA Secretariat. It was concluded that the Secretariat is running efficiently. Upcoming activities for the Secretariat will be to update the Membership Directory and ACA brochure. Also, the membership database will have to be expanded to include fields related to certification maintenance.

Examination Committee
The Committee met with the Professional Examination Service in January (see report in May 1992 ACA Newsletter). The Candidates Handbook has been revised and restructured, including a checklist to assist applicants in submitting complete applications. Candidates who reapply to take the exam, may indicate on the new application the date their application was previously approved so that the entire application packet need not be resubmitted. The Role Delineation developed to help in preparation of exam questions, and used as a guide for applicants to study for the exam, is found to be a very useful tool in defining the work of archivists.

The Board unanimously approved the following recommendations.
(1) Score reports will be listed by domain to help unsuccessful candidates prepare for retaking the exam.
(2) To qualify for the exam, the time of employment will be calculated to include the time period up to the date the exam is given.

Secretary’s Report
Nineteen of the 46 new members requested press releases be sent announcing their successful passing of the certification exam and membership in ACA. Eighty letters publicizing the examination were sent to regional archival organizations, including twelve to Canada. ACA brochures were sent for registrants at meetings of the Society of California Archivists, Southern Archives Conference, and Conference of Inter-Mountain Archivists.

Treasurer and Finance Committee Report
The Treasurer and Finance Committee Reports were discussed with a view to reducing expenditures and increasing income. Several recommendations were approved, including the elimination or reduction of the ACA Newsletter. Communications with members could be handled through periodic mailings, and press releases sent to archival publications.

Nominations Committee
Procedures for the work of the Nominations Committee were discussed. Linda Evans and Patrick Quinn will serve as liaisons between the Board and the Committee to strengthen communications.

Outreach Task Force Report
The detailed report of the Task Force was discussed. The Board unanimously approved the establishment of a standing committee to develop and implement outreach activities. Kaye Lanning Minchew agreed to chair the committee and will draft a charge for the work of the committee.

Ethics Task Force
The report of the Task Force revealed many areas for consideration by the Board. The Board will continue deliberations about these issues. In the interim, should an ethics issue arise, the Board will convene a committee of five to advise the Board. The Committee will be comprised of the three most recent past ACA Presidents and two outgoing Board members.

Recertification Task Force
Recertification/certification maintenance was the major focus of the Board meeting. The task force report provided an excellent blueprint for how ACA might proceed with this issue. (See articles on certification maintenance for details of current considerations for recertification.)
Proposed Certification Maintenance Program

by Maygene Daniels, ACA President

This year a proposed program to provide a mechanism for certified archivists to renew their certification has been developed by the Academy of Certified Archivists (ACA). The Recertification Task Force, ably chaired by Linda Edgerly, investigated recertification in other professions, reviewed recertification proposals and plans, assessed opinion with the archival profession, and prepared a proposal for recertification of archivists. This proposal provided the framework for an extensive discussion of certification maintenance at the spring meeting of the Academy’s Board that resulted in the proposed program.

Certification maintenance always has been considered an essential part of archival certification. It is based on the recognition that an archivist must remain abreast of new developments and maintain basic skills if he or she is to be effective. This is particularly important given technological changes and other new developments in the archival profession.

Certification maintenance also is intended to help ensure the validity and meaning of certification for employers and society, to offer certified archivist guidelines to measure their own progress, and to contribute to the continuing development of the archival profession.

The proposed certification maintenance program provides a mechanism for certified archivists to renew their certification for a five-year period either by (1) successfully completing the examination for certified archivists; or by (2) accumulating credits for professional employment, activities, and contributions.

The program encourages certified archivists to sit for the examination as the simplest means of demonstrating continued competence.

The program also provides the option of permitting certified archivists to demonstrate their continued professional development by participating in a variety of activities over a five-year period. This option recognizes that archivists maintain and develop their professional skills through a variety of activities. It therefore assigns credits for continuing employment; continuing education; professional participation; professional service; and archival writing, publishing, and editing.

The certification maintenance program particularly recognizes that archivists live and work in many different environments; therefore it is designed to be reasonable achievable regardless of work environment, geographic location, or personal situation. It has no specific requirements other than that the required number of credits be earned. However, the number of credits that can be earned in each category of activity is limited to ensure a balance professional approach.

The ACA Board is seeking comments on the proposed certification maintenance program as extensively as possible during the coming months. A decision concerning the program will be made as soon as possible after comments and reactions have been considered and analyzed.

Coming Soon!

PROPOSAL FOR CERTIFICATION MAINTENANCE

Certified archivists will receive the proposed Certification Maintenance Program description and additional explanatory information in a future mailing. The proposal is also available on request from the ACA Secretariat, 600 S. Federal, Suite 504, Chicago, Illinois 60605.
ACA Exam Theme of CIMA Conference

by John Lamborn, CIMA Immediate Past President

“Improving the Odds: Preparing for the ACA Exam,” was the theme for the 1992 spring meeting of the Conference of Inter-Mountain Archivists (CIMA) held May 27-29 at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. Conference sessions focused on the major “domains” of archival practice, and session leaders developed presentations correlating practices to the professional responsibilities described in the Role Delineation document.

An opening reception hosted by the James R. Dickinson Library featured a keynote address by Leon C. Miller of Tulane University. Mr. Miller noted that archival certification is gaining greater acceptance as the “basic credential for archival work,” and that the ACA certification examination is, “intended to test what you need to know to do that work.” Mr. Miller advised that the Role Delineation document be carefully reviewed in preparation for the exam since it is that document which, “sets out the archival principles used to construct the exam questions.” Following Mr. Miller’s remarks, exam applications and candidate handbooks provided by the Academy of Certified Archivists were distributed.

Conference sessions on May 28 included presentations on "Preservation" (Toby Murray, University of Tulsa), "Arrangement and Description" (Brad Cole, Utah State University, and Nancy Young, University of Utah) and "Records Appraisal" (Carrie Townley-Porter, Townley-Porter Associates, Reno, Nevada). Session topics on May 29 included "Outreach" (Jeanie Simmonds, Utah State University, and Leon Miller), "Acquisitions" (Greg Thompson, University of Utah, and Alan Virta, Boise State University), and "Access/Reference and Legal Issues" (Jeff Kintop, Nevada State Archives; Jeff Johnson, Utah State Archives; and Stan Larson, University of Utah). In addition, an informal forum discussing the certification process was provided by Ron Watt, ACA Treasurer.

A post-conference survey found that those in attendance ranked the keynote address as the most informative presentation. Seventy-eight percent felt that the conference provided them with a better understanding of certification and better prepared them for the ACA examination. Although sixty-four percent of attendees viewed ACA certification as positive for the profession, only twenty-eight percent reported plans to take the ACA examination prior to the conference. After the conference, thirty-five percent reported plans to seek certification. The greatest incentives for seeking certification were, “job requirement” and “career advancement.”

For a copy of the conference report or tapes of conference sessions, contact: Richard Davis, CIMA Secretary/Treasurer, P.O. Box 1048, Salt Lake City, Utah 84110-2048.

GUIDELINES FOR PROPOSALS TO THE 1993 SAA PROGRAM COMMITTEE

The 1992 Program Committee invites submission of program proposals for the meeting in New Orleans, Louisiana, September 2-5, 1993. This proposal form is designed to facilitate fully developed sessions. Fully developed proposals have a better chance of being adopted.

Proposals should:

▼ be limited to 75 words;
▼ identify the targeted audience;
▼ address issues of importance from several perspectives; and ▼ allow for adequate coverage of the session topic in the time allowed.

The Program Committee encourages proposals that may include, but are not limited to, the following formats:

▼ Traditional: Open session: two-hour timeframe consisting of two to three fully prepared papers of 15 to 20 minutes each and a comment and discussion period.

▼ Work-in-Progress: Open session: two-hour timeframe consisting of two to three presentations of 15 to 20 minutes each, describing on-going research topics, and at least one hour for feedback and discussion.

▼ Panel Discussion: Open session: two-hour timeframe consisting of a panel of 3-5 individuals providing a variety of theories or perspectives on the given topic.

▼ Point/Counterpoint: Open session: two-hour timeframe designed to give two distinct perspectives on a specific issue; the chair serves as moderator for the panel and facilitates discussion.

▼ Workshop: Limited enrollment: two-hour timeframe; an interactive session, usually designed to teach or refine archival skills.

▼ Seminar/Roundtable: Limited enrollment: two-hour timeframe; usually designed as a directed discussion among archivists sharing a common experience or preparation.

▼ Special Focus Session: Open session: one-hour timeframe designed to highlight innovative archival programs, new techniques, and research projects; audience participation is significant.

These guidelines are suggestive. Please note that archivists who participate in the program must register and secure institutional or personal funding. Nonmember non-archivists are eligible for complimentary registration upon request.

1993 Program Committee Members: Elaine Engst (Chair), Cornell University; Jackie Dooley, Getty Center for the History of Art and the Humanities; Karen Garlick, National Archives and Records Administration; Mark Greene, Minnesota Historical Society; Raimund Goerler, Ohio State University; Jean Hrichus, Chase Manhattan Bank; Carla Kemp, University of Florida; Katharine Morton; Timothy Murray, University of Delaware; Brent Thompson, Latter Day Saints Church; Diane Vogt-O'Connor, Smithsonian Institution Archives; Bill Walker, AIDS History Project, University of California-San Francisco; Donald West, Avery Research Center for African American History and Culture.

Send all proposals to Elaine Engst, Division of Rare Books and Manuscript Collections, 2B70 Kroch Library, Cornell University, Ithaca, New York 14853, fax (607) 255-9346.

PROPOSALS MUST BE POSTMARKED BY OCTOBER 9, 1992.

ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR/EDITOR
The American Historical Association
Gainesville, Florida

The American Historical Association, the University of Florida, and the Conference on Latin American History, seek an Associate Director for a new joint effort to improve access to Latin American and Hispanic manuscripts in the U.S. With funding from the National Endowment for the Humanities, the project initially will survey repositories for collections concerning or originating in Latin America and the Hispanic Caribbean prior to 1900, with plans to produce ultimately an electronic database available through national networks. Under the supervision of the Project Director, the Associate Director will oversee the day-to-day operation of the project office at the University of Florida, including the supervision of the project secretary and graduate assistants, liaison with the project’s Regional Advisers, coordination of work flow, maintenance of financial records, and adherence to all grant deadlines. The Associate Director will bear particular responsibility for maintaining consistency in all data collection and toward that end will be expected to implement, under the supervision of the Project Director, appropriate principles and procedures of bibliographic cataloging and subject/authority control. The qualifications for the position include formal training and experience as an archivist and graduate training in history, with specialization in Latin American history. PhD preferred. The successful candidate must have appropriate language facility (Spanish required, with preference for Portuguese as well), a strong computer background, experience with the USMARC-AMC format, and excellent administrative skills. Although the position will not be tenured and will not involve teaching, the Associate Director will be affiliated with the Department of History at the University of Florida in Gainesville. Initial appointment will be for eighteen months commencing January 1993, but reappointment is expected through the duration of the five-year project. Salary will be comparable to that of an associate professor.

Send a letter of application accompanied by a current c.v. to the Project Director: Dr. John F. Schwaller, Associate Dean, The Schmidt College of Arts and Humanities, Florida Atlantic University, Boca Raton, Florida 33431. Letters of recommendation are not required at this time, but names and addresses with telephone numbers of three references should be included. Deadline for applications is October 31, 1992.

History Saved

When rioting broke out in Los Angeles last April, the Southern California Library for Social Studies and Research (SCL) escaped the fires of civil unrest due largely to the efforts of one man, Chester Murray, the building manager. The library, which houses a remarkable collection of pamphlets, books, periodicals, films, and personal papers of local activists that trace the history of struggles for peace and social justice from the 1920s to the present, is located at Vermont and 62nd, just a few blocks from the flashpoint of the April 29th uprising. When an angry group headed north along Vermont that evening, Murray, who lives near the library, rushed to the building and persuaded the group to spare it. While almost everything nearby was looted and burned, including a branch of the Los Angeles Public Library, the SCL suffered only from a bit of graffiti.

Murray, the library’s building manager since the mid ’80s, started volunteering his services as a carpenter there in the ’70s. “I think they left us alone because the people in the community respect this place,” Murray said. “We invite people in the neighborhood to our events and they know we have a lot of black history here.”

The library was founded in 1963 by Emil Freed who was concerned that the history of early progressive groups would be lost as leftists discarded or destroyed pamphlets during the McCarthy era. The library’s collection currently includes 16,000 books, 21,000 pamphlets published by defense committees and labor unions, posters, audiotapes, documentary films, and 2,000 prints and slides which document labor, African American, and anti-war struggles.

Chester Murray sees hope for the future with the sparing of the library from the uprising. “We are here to help the community,” he said.

Local school children view one of three murals that grace the walls of the Southern California Library for Social Studies and Research. None of the murals were damaged during the uprising in Los Angeles, April 29-May 2, 1992. This mural is dedicated to undocumented workers. One of the library’s collecting areas is L.A. labor history.
