

Is It What It Is? And Who Cares? Translating WHAT We Do Into WHY We Do

Kari R. Smith, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Institute Archives and Special Collections

Smith used the interactive session to leverage attendee participation and feedback to populate the poster information. Smith's research question was: How do we successfully convey information about what and how and why we do what we do to non-archivists, and especially to librarian colleagues.

The solicited information was based on core archival functional areas of: Identification; arrangement and description; appraisal and acquisition; reference and access; preservation; and other functions and roles.
